Rationale:

If a tree falls in a forest and no one is around to hear it, does it make a sound? This is a philosophical question regarding observation and the nature of reality. A research study is based on a philosophical stance about the nature of reality, whether or not that stance is identified by the researcher (Trochim, 2018). This 2-Day Regional Training-Workshop will definitely hone the research skills of the 21st Century Information Specialists.

The Regional Training-Workshop has the following objectives:

- To provide basic and advance knowledge and trends on quantitative and qualitative research;
- To apply the learned basic and advance on quantitative and qualitative research design;
- To design a simple mixed-method research prototype;
- To appreciate the value of research correlated to library and information science;
- To apply the learned knowledge in the respective workplace; and
- To use the trends and innovations of emerging technology for better library services.

Php 3,500.00 – Non-PLAI Members/
